The Evicted Tenants of Smith-Barry in Absolute Want.

PARNELL DISSATISFIED WITH THE COURSE OF "UNITED IRELAND."

Congratulations to the Clergy on Their Work in the Election—Healy's Trade Against Parnell—O'Brien and Gill Arrive in France—A Story of the Election—The Priests.

LONDON, Dec. 25.—On his return from Kilkenny to Dublin, Mr. Parnell visited the offices of the United Ireland, and is said to have expressed dissatisfaction with the way that the paper had been run during the Kilkenny campaign, and especially in the matter of cartoons. Mr. John O'Connor, M.P., one of Mr. Parnell's parliamentary adherents, has been editing the paper and will probably retire, in any event, after the Paris conference with Mr. O'Brien. The evicted tenants of the Smith-Barry estate held a meeting Tuesday to consider the situation. Some of them are in absolute want and there is a strong feeling in favor of a wholesale surrender to Smith-Barry, whose agent, Mr. Townsend, has notified the tenants severally that the unoccupied farms are still at their disposal and the old terms without any additional charge for the improvements to which they have forfeited their title. It is evident that unless arrangements are speedily made for funds, the plan of campaign will be a complete failure.

The Bishop of Ossory has issued a communication to the clergy of his diocese, congratulating them on their work in the election. A gentleman well posted on the Irish situation thus sums up the result of the North Kilkenny election: "Mr. Parnell's defeat in the Kilkenny election is complete. In a total vote of 3,883 the majority for Parnell, the anti-Parnellite, is 1,171. The Parnellites, Scully, obtained only 1,256 votes, against 2,727 cast for his opponent. The abstentions were numerous. But all those who refused to vote were not Unionists. In 1888 the Unionists made a hot fight and polled only 1,705 votes. There are more than 300 Tory voters, all told, in the constituency. About 1,200 Nationalists refrained from voting."

replied Parnell, flatly, "I am constantly finding you at these tricks."

Parnell's personal adventures for the day were of little interest. He drove to several polling booths with Scully and was greeted at some places with groans. He prudently reconsidered his resolve to go to Castle Comer, where his appearance would have been almost sure to create a disturbance. He spent the entire day at Castle Comer. Davitt again marched into Hennessy's stronghold, Gowran, and worked like a Trojan all day at the polls. Parnell and he met almost shoulder to shoulder twice, but they never looked at each other.

PRIESTS IN THE CAMPAIGN.
Some strange stories are told about the conduct of the priests during the election at North Kilkenny. It is alleged that a squad of anti-Parnell men were marching from the country under the leadership of a priest, when they met a squad of Parnell men coming from the opposite direction. Blows might have been averted if another priest, in his anxiety to avoid a serious row, had not placed himself at the head of the Parnell men and endeavored to keep out of the way till their rivals had cast their ballots. This provoked brisk stick swinging, which was not stopped until the police charged upon the mob and took the sticks away from them. The day's experience showed that 500 policemen were none too many to keep order. They had all their could do. One good feature of the policemen was their absolute indifference to the priestly garb, wherever they saw it to interfere. They treated priest and peasant alike. I do not mean to say that the priests provoked all the petty rows which have made this day memorable in North Kilkenny, or that Parnell's supporters did not let their temper get the best of them, but certain it is that in many cases the priest could have avoided quarrels by actually encouraging them, cajoling or bullying the people, as circumstances required, in a manner that could not be excelled in the most priest-ridden country under the sun.

STEAMSHIP OBDAIL, from New York, having Messrs. O'Brien and Gill on board, was sighted off Prowle Point this morning. They landed on French soil at about 6 o'clock this forenoon.

DAVITT ON PARNELL.
DUBLIN, Dec. 25.—Michael Davitt at the meeting of the McCarthy committee yesterday described Parnell as "the descendant of a common Cromwellian soldier," who was "now attempting to destroy Ireland."

Mr. Davitt said that the League funds in Ireland were overdrawn to the extent of $2,000, the bulk of the money being locked up in Paris.

Parnell is of the opinion that he can convert William O'Brien at their meeting in Paris and thereby have another strong supporter. Parnell is said to be deeply wounded by the careless allusions to Mrs. O'Shea. Timothy Harrington says that any arrangement whereby the valuable services of Mr. Parnell are retained will be satisfactory to him.

CHICAGO FUNDS.
CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 25.—The entire proceeds of the O'Brien-Dillon meetings, $12,500, was cable to Joint Treasurers Webb and Kenny yesterday.

WHERE THE BATTLE WAS WAGED.
An Interesting Sketch of the Famous Ancient City of Kilkenny.

The County of Kilkenny, where Parnell waged his great political battle, is one of the most historic spots in all of "Ireland's" holy ground. Its ancient name was Ossory and it still retains that name as a Catholic stronghold. It was called Ossory, which means "the land of the Danes in Ossory," and among the first places he captured was the town of Ossory, which was the seat of his power.

Having conquered these tribes and driven them from the country between the Barrow and the Suir, he established the Kingdom of Ossory, which was the seat of his power. The Christian era to the English invasion the successors of Angus in a direct line were the hands of the Danes in 815. Donnall IV. was the last King of Ossory. He died in 1185. In 1170 Strongbow landed in Ireland, and among the first places he captured was the town of Ossory, which was the seat of his power.

He died in 1185. In 1170 Strongbow landed in Ireland, and among the first places he captured was the town of Ossory, which was the seat of his power.

CHRISTMAS OVER THE RIVER.

How the Day is Being Celebrated in St. Louis and Belleville.

The East St. Louis police interviewed conductor Pinkham of the Cairo Short Line road last night in the hope of finding a trace of Deputy Sheriff Schoenberg of Pulaski County, who mysteriously disappeared with a prisoner, Charles Jamison. Pinkham was a conductor of the train that passed Duquoin last night, and which should have been taken by Schoenberg and his prisoner had they come on to St. Louis. He informed the police that the pair had not boarded his train at all. The police draw the inference from this that they never reached Duquoin.

A heavy snowfall visited St. Clair County last night. The fall was thought to be general in this section, but it appears from the reports of railroad men who came into East St. Louis this morning that such was not the case. The first snow found by the Washburn men was at Taylor and Taylor C. The snow-train at Beardstown, showing that the storm did not extend very far north.

Several cars for the McCalland street railway through the Denverside addition were received yesterday, and the trial trip over the line which is nearly completed will have been made to-day, but the heavy snow prevented it.

Miss Carrie A. Davis, daughter of City Attorney R. R. Davis, will be married this afternoon to David S. Sage, a prominent real estate man and member of the firm of S. F. Chapin & Co. The ceremony will be performed at the bride's home on Baugh avenue at 4 p. m. by Rev. L. Cramp. Their honeymoon will
